Silk Rope chandelier suspensions

This method of suspension for chandeliers and pendant lamps combines the bodily suspension with the electrical wiring in a visually appealing way. The suspension contains a steel rope with wires for two independently switchable electrical circuits and comes with a matching ceiling rose and tassel. The tassel covers the connection of the steel rope with the chandelier.

These suspensions are hand-made in Vienna and come in a variety of colours. Lengths of silk ropes can be ordered in 10-cm-steps. To make small adjustments a few links of chain can be put in between the chandelier and the suspension which are then also covered by the tassel. If this is intended it is useful to order the suspension slightly shorter than actually needed and use the links to set the final length.

Please note that the colours shown above are reproductions from real pieces of silk. Therefore the actual colours may vary from what you see here. So these colours are to be seen only as an orientation on the availability of colours.
